

EXPLORING FOR COPPER AND GOLD IN TURKEY

KEFI Minerals has quickly established itself as an innovative exploration company focused on Turkey. After incorporating in the United Kingdom in late 2006, it has established an exploration office in Turkey, commenced field work and raised money in conjunction with listing on London's AIM market.

The Company has a strong management team and board with highly demonstrable track records in Australia and Europe. Our reputation has been built on treating safety, environment and community relations as a priority at all times.

KEFI Minerals will concentrate initially on exploring the prolific minerals endowment of Turkey, which is widely recognised as having a business-oriented government and a positive environment for exploration and mining activities.

KEFI Minerals is targeting large epithermal gold or porphyry gold-copper systems analogous to several +1 million ounce deposits recently discovered and developed in the Western Anatolia Region of Turkey.

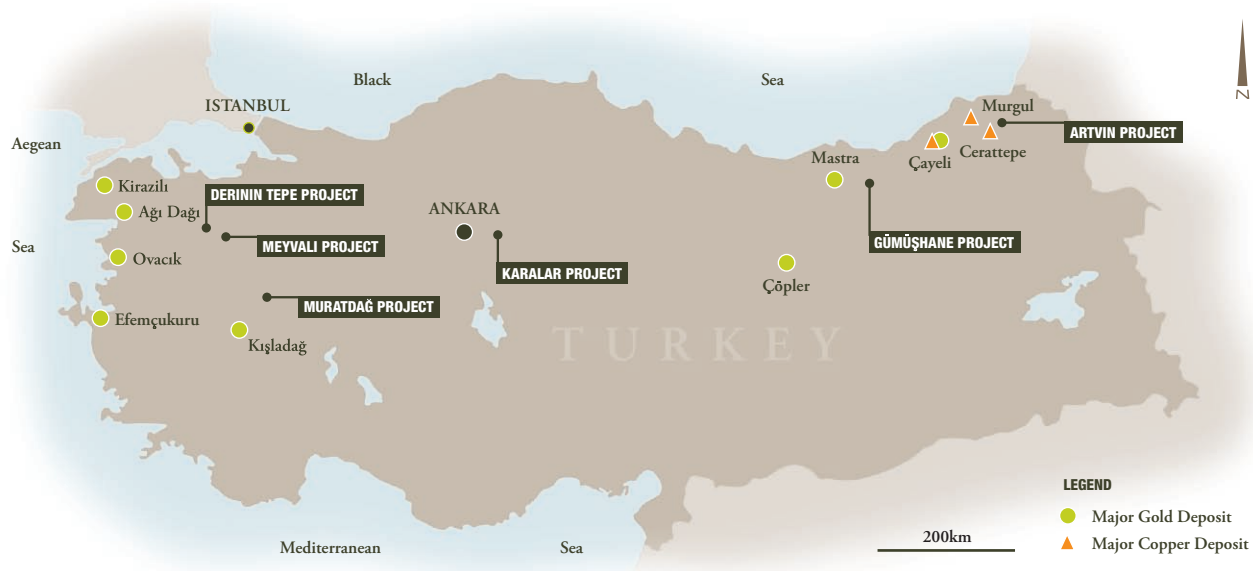

The extensive exploration database owned by KEFI Minerals contains information regarding approximately 100 further prospective sites in Turkey. The data was primarily compiled by Nuigini Mining geologists John Nethery, Ian Plimer, Gavin Thomas and Omer Akinci during 1989 to 1991. This database provides a competitive advantage in identifying prospective areas for project generation in Turkey.

EXPLORATION STRATEGY

KEFI Minerals' exploration strategy is based on the following concepts:

- ▶ Combining strong international and local knowledge in exploration models and techniques;
- ▶ Selecting areas within prospective stratigraphic and structural settings with a high potential for base metal or gold mineralisation;
- ▶ Exploring projects as a package rather than individual isolated prospects;
- ▶ Rapidly identifying, prioritising and assessing targets;
- ▶ Creating new contacts and further developing knowledge using an established local team; and
- ▶ Utilising technical and commercial support from EMED Mining as required.
